

Mike's History

I was diagnosed with prostate cancer in 2016, which lead to a prostatectomy followed by leuprolide (Lupron) ADT starting in 2017. Apalutamide was added in 2022 when I was found to have multiple bone metastases. Thankfully, my cancer has been quiet since the addition of apalutamide, but I started becoming aware of increased troubles with word finding and mental speed. I wondered whether this might be due to loss of estrogen to my brain, so I pushed for a trial of using tE2, with using neuropsychological tests to look for any difference.
